I am the chair of the department and the Theatre Manager for the Malaspina Theatre. As one of the key cultural hubs of the university, we host on average, 200-240 events each year and play host to approximately 25000 guests per year in the theatre. As well as running our own productions, we also assist with the technical requirements of convocation and other events around campus. I've been here 21 years and have worked diligently to foster collaborations between departments.
